Fiori Toscani IV

While Bruno's timeless, romantic Tuscan scenes represent the Italian rural idyll, their courageous use of colour and painterly texture establish them as bold, contemporary pieces. Inspired by the stunning scenery of his native land, he explores a vibrant palette which is redolent of the heat and dazzling light of this most irresistible of regions. Bruno has exhibited his fabulous landscapes since 1972 in some of the most prestigious galleries in Italy. Since enjoying a number of sell-out shows in Milan and Florence his paintings have been bought by both public and private collectors from all over the world, and he is now acclaimed as an international force on the contemporary art scene.

Bruno

Wild tangles of poppies and golden broom, cypress trees marching across the blue horizon, gently curving hillsides and red roofed villas glowing terracotta in the radiant sunlight – this is the Tuscan landscape as described by the region's most celebrated artist, Bruno Tinucci.
